

ASX Announcement

Acquisition of Airwell Flow Testing

Dynamic Group Holdings Limited (ASX: DDB) (“Dynamic” or the “Company”) is pleased to announce that it has entered into a binding agreement to acquire 100% of Airwell Flow Testing which is a division of Airwell Group Pty Ltd (“Transaction”).

Highlights

- Highly complementary to Dynamic’s existing Welldrill business, providing the opportunity for additional deployments for both existing and acquired fleet
- Airwell Flow Testing provides additional water related services capabilities with lower capital intensity
- Total consideration of A$2m
- Provides additional earnings diversity across the Company

The total cash consideration payable to Airwell Group Pty Ltd for Airwell Flow Testing is A$2 million, with A$1.5 million cash payable upon completion (expected in February 2024) and A$0.5 million cash payable in August 2024.

Airwell Flow Testing has built an outstanding reputation and has a team of experts in the flow testing industry, having serviced a number of Western Australian based clients for over 20 years. Over this period Airwell Flow Testing has developed proprietary flow testing software and hardware that is tailored to its tier-1 customers and has the ability to fully monitor and control flow testing systems remotely from its Perth headquarters via Supervisory Control and Data Acquisition (SCADA).

Water bore flow testing is critical for assessing the quantity, quality, and sustainability of water sources and provides information for managing water resources to ensure compliance with environmental and regulatory standards.

ASX Announcement

Dynamic's water focussed business, Welldrill, has a strong understanding of Airwell Flow Testing having partnered to provide additional non-drilling services to existing Welldrill customers. As part of this experience working together, material synergies have been identified with the Welldrill business.

The Transaction has been structured as an asset purchase of plant & equipment along with acquisition of systems relating to the Airwell Flow Testing division and associated intellectual property rights. The upfront consideration of $1.5 million will be funded through the extension of an existing asset finance facility with the deferred consideration to be funded through existing cash reserves and/or further asset finance.

Dynamic Group CEO, Geoff Newman, said:

"Dynamic is excited about the acquisition of the Airwell Flow Testing business. While only a relatively minor bolt-on acquisition, Dynamic has identified a number of organic growth opportunities and synergies with the existing Dynamic business that should assist in driving growth."

The acquisition bolsters the offering of Dynamic's water-well business, Welldrill, and provides a foothold in the growing flow testing industry which is lower capital intensity than existing drilling operations.

We look forward to an accelerated integration of Airwell Flow Testing within Dynamic."
