Participants will receive an option to subscribe for one share for every four shares subscribed for under the Private Placement exercisable at AUD$0.30 with a two-year option period.

The Company will issue shares subscribed for under the Private Placement ("Placement") to Mangwana Nominees (Private) Limited ("The Depository"), which will in turn list a non-issuer sponsored depository receipt on the Victoria Falls Stock Exchange ("VFEX"). Mangwana will seek to have shares from the placement listed as Depository Receipts on the VFEX to facilitate local trading of the underlying securities.

This comprises multiple other long-term Zimbabwean investment funds with an intention to support the project through final stages of exploration, development and into production.

Funds raised from the strategic Placement will be used to advance the Cabora Bassa Project, including Mukuyu-2 flow testing and advancement of early monetisation opportunities, purchase of long leads for shallow exploration wells targeting the Eastern Margin and Basin Margin plays and general working capital.

The Placement will be carried out in a two-tranche Private Placement with Tranche One comprising the issue of 113.6 million New Shares to raise US$7.5 million and will fall within the Company's available placement capacity under ASX Listing Rules 7.1 and 7.1A ("Tranche One").

Tranche Two will comprise an additional US$2.5 million on the same terms as Tranche One, subject to shareholder approval to be sought at a future Extraordinary General Meeting ("EGM") of shareholders. Invictus reserves the right to accept oversubscriptions of up to US$5 million at its absolute discretion and any oversubscriptions taken will settle in Tranche Two.

FINALISATION OF PETROLEUM PRODUCTION SHARING AGREEMENT

Mutapa Investment Fund's participation in this equity raise signifies the Government of Zimbabwe's commitment and alignment to the Cabora Bassa Project. This is further reinforced by the commitment to finalise and implement the PPSA, which provides a stable and transparent legal and fiscal framework to govern the project.

NEAR TERM EXPLORATION STRATEGY

The Company will utilise Placement proceeds to progress the Cabora Bassa Project, including Mukuyu-2 flow test and early monetisation studies, purchase of long lead items for exploration wells and general working capital.

The Company is nearing completion of the well test design study and contract negotiations for the provision of well services and equipment.

NEAR TERM CORPORATE STRATEGY

The Company's development strategy reflects the significance of the Cabora Bassa Basin opportunity and the importance of gas in Southern Africa's future energy mix.

Invictus is building internal capability to ensure it has the people and systems in place to manage its transformation from explorer to developer, and ultimately producer.

The Company's high equity stake across the three licence areas in a significant and strategic resource provides multiple partnering and financing pathways for each licence area, including upstream JV partners, services companies, regional development banks and other strategic partners, which are being progressed to unlock value for the Company and its shareholders.

As a part of the Company's plan to develop the resource base, Invictus is engaged in active discussions on multiple fronts to bring in strategic participants in the Cabora Bassa Project and manage Invictus' equity position through the completion of a farmout to accelerate development of the project.

MEDIUM TERM DEVELOPMENT STRATEGY

Invictus intends on transitioning from an oil and natural gas explorer to producer in Zimbabwe in order to ensure long term, reliable and affordable energy, whilst providing excellent returns to shareholders.

Invictus will leverage its position as the sole oil and gas resource holder in Zimbabwe to develop a profitable production business that helps meet the region's energy needs.

Dual gas-condensate discoveries declared last December at Mukuyu in the Upper and Lower Angwa reservoirs marks a significant development in the Company's history. Invictus is embarking on executing its longer-term strategy for appraising and developing this resource.

The Company's strategy is built on the strong foundation provided by Mukuyu, which is:

- A strategic sized gas-condensate resource.
- Very high-quality gas composition with negligible impurities, which will require minimal processing for sale to downstream customers.
- Close to demand centres and existing infrastructure including the Southern Africa Power Pool (SAPP) to facilitate large scale transmission of power.
- Liquid hydrocarbon content providing additional high value revenue stream in the form of condensate and supply liquid petroleum gases (LPGs) which is in high demand both locally and regionally.

The market opportunity for Mukuyu is based on the field being located in close proximity to high energy demand sectors in Zimbabwe and in turn being a lower cost option for reliable gas supply to these industries.

Invictus also forecasts significant demand for reliable power supply by Zimbabwe's growing natural resources and industrial sectors.

These opportunities and development scenarios are currently being evaluated and progressed, and will be announced in subsequent market updates as the sale agreements become material.

As a result, Invictus' strategy and plans for developing its Cabora Bassa Basin assets are summarised below:

- Completing post-well studies program to maximise insights from existing wells.
- Reservoir engineering studies to determine how best to test and produce the Mukuyu reservoirs to inform likely development concept.
- Refine well design, data acquisition program and well services contracts to deliver a reduction in future Mukuyu well costs by 40%.
- Ongoing engagement with seismic, drilling and ancillary service providers to ensure equipment availability in Zimbabwe on favourable terms.
- Conduct 3D seismic over the Mukuyu gas-condensate field to assist in delineating resources and reservoir connectivity to determine future well locations, high-grade areas of the field for early development and strategic locations for surface processing and distribution facilities.
- Further appraisal drilling including well testing to build the resource base sufficiently and underpin future development.
- Phased development of Mukuyu to generate early cashflow, maximise capital efficiency and optimise a larger scale full field development based on a full understanding of the available resource:
 - Pilot Phase: Expandable pilot project with onsite power generation or trucked compressed natural gas (CNG) to Eureka Gold Mine through the Himoina and Dallaglio Investments gas sale MOU.
 - Phase 1: Large scale gas to power through existing SAPP network underpinned by Mbuyu Energy.
 - Phase 2: Piped gas to large industrial consumers underpinned by Sable Chemicals.
- Exploration of Invictus' dominant position in the Cabora Bassa prospective fairway, including the Central Fairway, Eastern Margin and the potentially more liquid prone Basin Margin plays to understand its full resource potential. Current planned activities include:

- Maturation of additional prospects and leads from the CB23 seismic survey.
- Integration of Mukuyu results to apply to wider acreage area.
- Proposed exploration drilling campaign resulting from seismic activities above.

With an appropriate capital partner in place to support continued exploration and development of the basin, Invictus Energy will be well placed to execute upon this strategic plan.
