Ventia awarded On-Demand New Developments Module with NBN Co

Ventia is pleased to announce the award of a significant contract with NBN Co, expected to generate approximately $150 million in revenue over the next three years. This contract, called the On-Demand New Developments Module, comes on the back of Ventia's recent award of another on-demand contract with NBN Co. Together, these contracts position Ventia as a key provider to NBN Co for on-demand services across Australia.

Under the On-Demand New Developments Module, Ventia will undertake the survey and construction to extend nbn's fibre network to Multi-Dwelling Units (MDUs), Horizontal MDUs, Single Dwelling Units, and Simplex sites in regions within Queensland, New South Wales & ACT, Victoria, and Tasmania. The scope of this module involves the installation of new nbn[®] broadband infrastructure to various locations, utilising technologies such as Fibre to the Premises (FTTP) and Hybrid Fibre Coaxial (HFC).

Mark Ralston, Ventia's Group Executive – Telecommunications, said: "Ventia has been delivering the On-Demand New Developments scope for nbn for nearly a decade, achieving exceptional results nationwide. This new contract is a testament to our long-standing, strategic partnership with NBN Co."

"As a key provider of on-demand services for NBN Co, we are proud to leverage our extensive national presence and strong track record in delivering projects like this one. We look forward to redefining service excellence for NBN Co through our customer-focused, innovative, and sustainable approach," he added.

Work is set to commence in November 2024.
