

ZOONO GROUP LIMITED (ASX: ZNO)

ASX ANNOUNCEMENT - 22 January 2025
Quarterly Report and Company Update

- Further strong interest in shelf-life extension technology
  - Additional 8 supermarket groups and packaging companies going to trials
  - Over 40 supermarket and packaging companies currently in discussions

Zoono Group Limited (Company) (ASX: ZNO) today releases its Appendix 4C for the quarter ending 31 December 2024. In conjunction with that release, Zoono provides the following quarterly activities report to update shareholders and the market on developments during the quarter and on the Company's outlook.

Zoono continues to prioritise the development of commercial opportunities in its selected niche markets. Importantly, progress is being made on several major sales opportunities.

Shelf-life extension project - UK, Europe, Asia, Africa, and Australia

Zoono and OSY Group Ltd (OSY) are currently conducting 29 shelf-life extension trials (compared to 21 at the end of the prior quarter) in twelve countries (across four continents). The trials involve a diverse range of customers, including supermarket chains, food producers, packaging companies and exporters.

Where the earlier trials were focused predominantly on soft fruits, that focus has now broadened substantially to include other fruits and vegetables, meat, fish, poultry, bread, ready-meals and fresh flowers. All tests and trials to date have been successful.

In addition to the above, many other companies are engaged with either Zoono or its project partner, OSY, in relation to the technology. Discussions range from early-stage engagement, detailed product discovery to in-store trials and contract negotiations.

The level of interest demonstrated across the different geographies and product categories continues to be extremely positive, validating Zoono's belief that its technology, coupled with OSY's application methodology, can assist with the reduction of food waste globally.

Two major UK supermarket chains have now confirmed plans to roll out the packaging technology to a number of their designated depots for in-store berry trials in March 2025. This is the next step in the process and, if successful, it is expected to lead into a full national roll-out to all stores in Q4 FY25 / Q1 FY26.

In large part, the conservative approach of the large UK supermarkets chains to the adoption of the new technology and the resultant extensive testing of the Zoono product and application technology have driven the delays.

While it is disappointing that commercial uptake of the packaging technology is taking longer than expected, the Board is very encouraged by the level of interest in its products and the potential for future long-term revenue streams available from this niche market. That confidence is founded on the fact that the trials have demonstrated an extremely compelling case for any supermarkets willing to invest in the new shelf-life extension technology - the return on investment is more than 5 times.

It is also the case that in the interim customer interest has increased and the number of companies moving forward with product trials far exceeds the initial forecasts. OSY is now considerably further ahead in the implementation of its commercialisation strategy than previously projected.

The Company has also been able to use the time to further refine and improve its product and the application process itself. The new product formulation has facilitated an increase in the speed of application to the packaging material which, for packaging companies, has materially reduced any negative impact of the use of the Zoono product on their productivity.

Zoono is also in discussions with several large packaging companies that supply UK and European supermarkets.

Other initiatives

Zoono is also making some progress in its target Asian markets of China, Korea, India and Japan. Further orders are expected in Q3 and Q4 FY25 from a large Japanese pharmaceutical company for product which will ultimately be used in the textile industry.

Working capital

With continuing lower operating overheads, improved sales revenues in Q1 and Q2 FY25 (over PCP FY24) and the potential for sales of its shelf-life extension products starting in Q3 or Q4 FY25, Zoono expects to have sufficient funds to meet its objectives. It also has access to further funding lines should they be required.

Summary of Q2 Expenditure

Related party payments of $120,000 shown on the following Appendix 4C were directors' fees (including amounts paid to the executive director) for services rendered.

Expenditure incurred during the quarter on business activities was primarily on staff costs (NZ$117K), product manufacturing (NZ$121K) and administration and corporate overheads (NZ$817K). Other material expenditure included advertising and marketing (NZ$41K) and interest and research and development (NZ$5K).

	8.6.1 Does the entity expect that it will continue to have the current level of net operating cash flows for the time being and, if not, why not?
	Answer: No, the Company is working on several deals that it is looking to supply over the next two quarters and the Company has stock inventories of NZ$6.3M, it expects in most instances to be able to materially reduce its cost of goods sold given we do not have to order and pay for additional stock to generate sales.
	8.6.2 Has the entity taken any steps, or does it propose to take any steps, to raise further cash to fund its operations and, if so, what are those steps and how likely does it believe that they will be successful?
	Answer: Yes, the Company will look at undertaking two initiatives to ensure it has sufficient cash to fund its operations: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• first, it has already undertaken a significant restructure of its business which involves a material reduction in the Company's monthly overhead structure, including further material savings in the current quarter to reduce future overheads</li> <li>• and second, the Company has further funding lines if required.</li> </ul>

Quarterly cash flow report for entities subject to Listing Rule 4.7B

8.6.3 Does the entity expect to be able to continue its operations and to meet its business objectives and, if so, on what basis?

Answer:

Yes, with the Company's reduced overheads and the expected receipts from customers over the next two quarter, the Company fully expects to be able to continue its operations and to meet its business objectives.

Note: where item 8.5 is less than 2 quarters, all of questions 8.6.1, 8.6.2 and 8.6.3 above must be answered.
