For the half-year ended 31 December 2024

Noel Cornish AM, Non-Executive Chairman

The Directors of AML3D Limited ("Company" or "AML3D") present their report, together with the interim financial statements of the Company and its controlled entity ("the Group") for the half year ended 31 December 2024 ("interim financial period").

Directors

The following persons were Directors of the Company during the interim financial period and to the date of this report:

Sean Ebert	Executive Director
Andrew Sales	Executive Director
Peter Siebels	Non-executive Director

Directors have been in office since the start of the interim financial period to the date of this report unless otherwise stated.

Principal activities

The principal activities of AML3D during the financial period were to;

- Design and construct ARCEMY® 3D printing modules for sale or lease with an option to buy;
- Design and construct 3D parts using Wire-arc Additive Manufacturing technology and to develop that technology; and
- Research and development into the refinement of the Company's products, including alternative applications.

No significant changes in the nature of the Company's activity occurred during the interim financial period.

Operating and Financial Review

Review of operations

The launch of the AML3D's US Scale Up strategy in the fourth quarter of Financial Year 2023 marked an evolution in the company's growth strategy and delivered over $19 million in orders to date. Revenues for the first half of the 2025 Financial Year (1H25) were $4.63 million, a significant improvement on the $1.51 million of revenue in the prior comparable period (PCP).

AML3D moved from the supply of industrial scale components, produced using our proprietary ARCEMY® metal 3D printing systems, to the supply of ARCEMY® systems, complemented by component manufacturing. 80% of the revenues in 1H25 came from U.S. based customers, a strong endorsement of AML3D's decision to launch the ARCEMY® system supply growth strategy in the U.S.

AML3D's continuing success penetrating the U.S. market in 1H25 was supported by ongoing investment and contract wins, including:

- Opening of the U.S. Technology centre with immediate plans for expansion and an initial $2.27 million utilities contract,
- A strongly supported, institutional placement that raised $30 million to fund expansion in the U.S. and Europe and R&D programs to maintain AML3D's competitive advantage.
- Partnership with BlueForge Alliance (BFA) strengthened with the signing of a Manufacturing Licence Agreement (MLA) to support the U.S. Navy submarine program.
- Contract to upgrade an Australian Defence and industry supplier's systems to ARCEMY® standard.
- $1.1m ARCEMY® system sale to U.S. Navy component supplier Laser Welding Solutions (LWS).
- Delivery of two additional leased ARCEMY® 2600 Edition systems to LWS.
- Delivery of the largest custom made ARCEMY® system, for Austal, to AML3D's U.S. facility for final testing.
- Final commissioning of an ARCEMY® X-Edition 6700 system for U.S. Navy submarine supplier, Cogitic Corporation.
- Continuation of Nickel Aluminium Bronze (NAB) and Copper Nickel (CuNi) materials qualification programs.

In 1H25 AML3D also initiated an investment program to ensure its U.S. operations and Technology Centre can expand to keep pace with surging U.S. demand. This U.S. investment program also has the benefit of freeing up manufacturing capacity in AML3D's Adelaide base to support expansion in the Australian and European markets.

Expansion in the U.S, establishment of European operations and refocusing of the Australian business to support local and European opportunities represents the next phase in AML3D's growth strategy. In preparation for this next phase AML3D's Australian operations worked hard to complete several contracts in 1H25, including:

- A U.S. Navy's Virginia-Class nuclear submarine tailpiece components contract.
- A A$2 million design and supply contract for non-safety critical U.S. Navy submarine parts.
- An Australian Government Defence Science and Technology Group (DSTG) contract to supply components for testing in marine applications.
- A DSTG contract to supply a 6-part nozzle assembly for an aerospace project.

Growth Strategy – US market

In 1H25 AML3D announced a $12 million dollar investment to more than double the manufacturing capacity in its, recently established, U.S. operations and expand to a second site for the assembly and production of ARCEMY® systems. This expansion will ensure the Company can keep pace with an expected acceleration in U.S. demand. This surge in U.S. demand is expected to be underpinned by the award in 1H25 of US$951 million by the U.S. Department of Defence to BFA, a key US partner of AML3D, to boost the adoption of advanced manufacturing technologies to support the U.S. Navy's submarine industrial base.

AML3D has established a strong relationship with BFA, built on successfully delivering several component manufacturing and alloy testing contracts and supplying ARCEMY® systems in support of the U.S. Navy submarine industrial base. The relationship has been strengthened further with the signing of an MLA, in 1H25, with BFA. The MLA allows AML3D to work with key suppliers and internal teams within the U.S. Navy submarine industrial base and exchange technical assistance and data, facilitating an expansion of AML3D's activities to support the U.S. Navy. AML3D is now also positioned to leverage an expanded U.S. manufacturing base to compete for lucrative International Traffic in Arms Regulations (ITAR) and other U.S. only controlled information Defence contracts.

The U.S. growth strategy includes expanding into non-Defence sectors such as Utilities, Aerospace, Marine, Oil & Gas and Transport. In 1H25 AML3D received a $2.27 million ARCEMY order from the Tennessee Valley Authority, ('TVA'), the largest U.S. public utility, to support its power generation repair capability. This entry into the U.S. Utilities sector alongside the Manufacturing License Agreement ("MLA") signed with Boeing Defence and Space ("Boeing") and the successful delivery of test components for both Boeing and Chevron create a platform from which to expand non-defence contracts in the U.S.

Growth Strategy – Europe and Australia

AML3D is investing approximately A$5million to establish a European technology centre. The initial focus for AML3D's European operations will be the UK Defence market, which is displaying demand signals similar to those that preceded the successful entry into the US defence market. At launch, AML3D's European operations will be built around a production and demonstration ARCEMY® system supported by additional manufacturing capacity at AML3D's Australian facility. AML3D's European operations will be targeting the UK's defence sector, in the first instance, with plans to explore additional opportunities across the broader European Defence, Utilities, Aerospace, Marine and Oil & Gas sectors thereafter.

In the Australian market, AML3D successfully delivered, in 1H25, marine and aerospace test parts for the Australian Government Defence Science and Technology Group (DSTG). The DSTG contracts followed the delivery of prototype test parts in 1H24 to support BAE Systems Maritime Australia's contract to design and build the Hunter Class Frigates for the Royal Australian Navy. AML3D also completed an upgrade to a robotic welding system at Century Engineering, an Australian defence supplier, to ARCEMY® standards in 1H25. AML3D plans to leverage this track record of successful delivery to drive growth within the Australian defence sector, while also exploring opportunities to expand into non-defence sectors in Australia.

R&D Investment

AML3D is investing up to A$3 million to continue developing its market leading advanced Wire Arc Manufacturing (WAM®) technology to maintain the Company's competitive advantage. The successful conclusion of R&D initiatives, such as the ARCEMY® Increase Deposition Rates ('AIDR') project, has the potential to significantly broaden the range of applications for AML3D's advanced manufacturing across global defence and industrial manufacturing markets.

Operating Results and Financial Position

Revenue for 1H25 was up 206% on the prior corresponding period (PCP) to $4.63 million, with gross profit margins of 73% assisted by the higher U.S. dollar.

1H25 Earnings Before Interest, Tax, Depreciation and Amortisation (EBITDA) was a loss of $2.83 million, $0.23 million less than the loss in the PCP. Normalising the result for equity settled share base payments ($1.30 million) and U.S. establishment costs ($1.36 million), EBITDA for the half year was close to break even at a loss of $0.17 million.

Receipts from customers were solid at $3.24 million, with over $1 million in overdue customer receipts received early in January 2025. Payments to suppliers and employees were up $1.34 million on PCP to $5.87 million, reflective of increased investment to establish the U.S. technology centre at Stow Ohio.

AML3D is continuing investment in its US operations, expansion into Europe and R&D programs to drive the Company's 's growth. Capital additions for the half year were $1 million with over $0.70 million directed to U.S. operations.

The Company's cash position is extremely strong at A$32.1 million on 31 December 2024 following the A$30 million of capital raised (before costs), via an equity placement, completed in December 2024.

Outlook

The strength of AML3D' balance sheet means the company is entering a new growth phase from a robust financial position. Continuing to capitalise on surging demand for additive manufacturing in the U.S. defence sector will remain core to driving this next growth phase, which also includes expected growth in Australian defence sector contracts and the roll out of the U.S. Scale up playbook in Europe, with a focus on the UK defence market.

The ongoing investment in U.S. and European facilities alongside AML3D's Australian operations will give the Company an international manufacturing network with the capacity to supply additional, globally significant, defence markets. This international manufacturing network also provides the capacity to continue AML3D's expansion into non-defence Marine, Aerospace, Utility, Oil & Gas and Transport sectors, across its key markets, over the medium term.

AML3D is well positioned to expand in multiple high growth markets, which gives the board confidence the Company will deliver significant shareholder value over time.
