New Group CEO and Executive Director

Australian Clinical Labs (ACL, the Company) announces that Mr Greg Horan has been appointed as its new Group CEO and Executive Director. Mr Horan will join ACL on 1 June 2026 as Group CEO-elect and his role as the new Group CEO will take effect from 31 August 2026, when the current Group CEO and Executive Director, Melinda McGrath, steps down from the role after 10 years.

Mr. Horan was most recently CEO of Healthscope, during a period of unprecedented industry change as the private hospital sector emerged from the COVID pandemic. He was accountable for the day-to-day performance of the Healthscope business and its long-term strategic direction, leading its 20,000 employees and 5000 visiting medical officers across 43 hospitals.

Mr. Horan started his career in the mining industry before moving into private equity with Brookfield Capital Partners. He has 25 years of experience across a diverse range of industries, consistently translating strategy into operational execution through the empowerment of people, clear accountability of outcomes and an action-oriented mindset.

ACL Board Chair Stephen Roche says, “Greg is an outstanding appointment for ACL at an important point in the Company’s evolution. His deep experience leading complex healthcare organisations and strong track record of delivering strategic and operational outcomes position him well to lead ACL through its next phase of growth.”

“On behalf of the Board, I would also like to acknowledge Melinda McGrath’s exceptional leadership over the past decade. Under her stewardship, ACL has built a strong, resilient platform, and the Board thanks her for her significant contribution to the Company’s success. We look forward to working with Greg as he builds on this foundation.”

Current Group CEO Melinda McGrath says, “Greg’s mix of skills and experience along with a track record in growing business within evolving industries make him an ideal fit for ACL. Along with the ACL executive team, the business is in very good hands, and I wish Greg every success in the role.”

Incoming Group CEO Greg Horan says, “I am excited to join ACL and contribute to a business that plays such an important role in Australia’s healthcare system. ACL is a high-quality business, demonstrated by its strong clinical presence and market leading performance. I look forward to working with the team to continue that momentum.”

The key terms of Mr Horan’s contract appear as Schedule 1 to this announcement.
