Aspermont Limited (ASX: ASP, FRA: 00W)

Q4 FY26 Trading Update & Appendix 4C Cover

Aspermont Limited (ASX: ASP, FRA: 00W), the global leader in B2B intelligence for the resources sector, provides its preliminary, unaudited results for the year ended 30 September 2026 (FY26) and a trading update for the fourth quarter (Q4 FY26).

Our transformation: from publisher to decision-intelligence platform

Aspermont is transforming 190 years of resource-sector authority into a decision-intelligence platform for the companies, investors and governments that shape the global resources industry. The transition is funded by our established subscriptions business, and FY26 was its planned investment year. The proof points that matter were delivered:

- Subscriptions engine intact: Subscriptions & Data Licensing revenue of $10.2m, two-thirds of group revenue, completing a ten-year record of subscriptions growth
- Data & Intelligence business built: dedicated team in place, data pipeline live, Rio Tinto data licence in delivery, and proof-of-concepts with 10 Tier-1 miners from November 2026
- Enterprise selling converting: lighthouse Nexus contract signed with a Tier-1 global OEM supplier in Q4; FY26 Nexus revenue up 127%
- Cash discipline: net operating cash outflow held at $0.21m–$0.35m a quarter from Q2, in line with the underlying run-rate disclosed in Q1; cash of $1.6m at 30 September with no debt

FY26 Full Year Results (preliminary, unaudited)

FY26 revenue from continuing operations grew 1% to $15.2m (FY25: $15.0m, excluding $0.4m of other income). Subscriptions & Data Licensing revenue was flat at $10.2m. Non-subscriptions revenue grew 4% to $5.0m, led by Nexus (+127%), growth in digital advertising and events (+9%), offsetting continued structural decline in print advertising. Annual Recurring Revenue rose 4% to $11.6m at 30 September, completing a ten-year record of subscriptions growth from June 2016 to June 2026; from FY27, ARR is retired as a reported metric in favour of Subscriptions Revenue under the new reporting framework. FY26 normalised EBITDA of ($1.3m) reflects the planned investment in the Data & Intelligence build.

Q4 revenue of $3.4m compares with $4.7m in Q4 FY25, which included $1.0m of Future of Mining event revenue that fell in Q3 in FY26; excluding events, Q4 revenue was down 5%. $0.5m of revenue on contracts signed in the quarter, led by the Tier-1 OEM Nexus contract, starts in FY27. Subscriptions & Data Licensing revenue was flat year on year at $2.5m. Q4 normalised EBITDA of ($0.2m) reflects this contract timing and ongoing data platform investment.

Cash flow trajectory

Net operating cash outflow was $0.30m in Q4. As disclosed in the Q1 FY26 Appendix 4C, the Q1 outflow of $1.50m included one-off items (prior-period payments, annual incentive payments and prepayments for events and other contractual commitments), with an underlying Q1 outflow of around $0.3m; quarterly outflows have since remained between $0.21m and $0.35m. Q4 operating cash flow held steady despite the extended enterprise sales cycles flagged in June and the Data & Intelligence investment brought forward into CY26. Cash rose to $1.6m at 30 September, supported by a partial sale of the Tāiko Critical Minerals (NZX: TCM) holding, representing 5.3 quarters of funding at the Q4 operating cash flow rate (Appendix 4C, item 8.5).

A$ (Appendix 4C)	Q1 FY26	Q2 FY26	Q3 FY26	Q4 FY26
Receipts from customers	$3.85m	$3.89m	$3.99m	$3.61m
Net operating cash flow	($1.50m)	($0.21m)	($0.35m)	($0.30m)
Closing cash	$1.52m	$1.58m	$0.90m	$1.60m
Quarters of funding (4C item 8.5)	—	—	2.6	5.3

*Q1 included one-off outflows (prior-period payments, annual incentive payments and prepayments for events and other commitments), as disclosed in the Q1 FY26 Appendix 4C. Operating cash flow excludes Tāiko share sale proceeds (investing cash flow). Q4 closing cash includes those proceeds.

FY26 Operational Highlights

- Ten-year record of subscriptions growth completed (June 2016 to June 2026); ARR up 4% to $11.6m at 30 September 2026
- Lighthouse Nexus contract signed with a Tier-1 global OEM supplier. $0.5m of Q4 revenue on booked contracts starts in FY27. FY26 Nexus revenue up 127%
- Data & Intelligence build progressing to plan:
    - Source-to-graph data pipeline live across multiple sources, including government permitting, drilling and project feeds
    - Rio Tinto enterprise data licence in delivery; tens of thousands of projects already identified in the digitised archive
    - Proof-of-concept demonstrations with 10 Tier-1 miners from November 2026; MVP early 2027
    - Shared delivery platform selected for API, AI/LLM and portal access
    - Initial Data & Intelligence customer revenue expected CY27
- Structured sessions with six global mining majors confirmed demand for source-traceable intelligence delivered directly into clients' own AI tools and data environments

Enterprise pipeline converting

One of the two enterprise contracts flagged in June — the Tier-1 OEM Nexus contract — was signed in Q4, with revenue delivering through FY27. The second remains delayed by geopolitical headwinds and is expected in H1 FY27. Further enterprise and data opportunities are in active discussion with major mining houses.

Optionality from non-core assets

During Q4 the Company completed a partial sale of its holding in Tāiko Critical Minerals Limited (NZX: TCM), supporting liquidity; the residual holding continues to provide optionality. The balance sheet remains debt-free, with cash of $1.6m at 30 September 2026 representing 5.3 quarters of funding at the Q4 operating cash flow rate (Appendix 4C, item 8.5).

Outlook

FY27 opens with booked Nexus revenue, data proof-of-concepts under way with 10 Tier-1 miners, and a cost base re-shaped for delivery. The Board expects the Company to reach sustainable operating cash generation in H2 FY27, consistent with the updated guidance communicated in June 2026. From Q1 FY27 the Company will report under its new framework (Subscriptions Revenue and EBITDA). Audited FY26 results and FY27 guidance will be released with the FY26 Annual Report.

UK capital markets

As Aspermont establishes itself as a data and intelligence business, the Board is monitoring rising UK investor interest and the favourable peer-group comparison available in that market. A UK market listing is among the options the Board is keeping under review. No decision has been made, and any such step would be subject to market conditions and the interests of shareholders.
